To prove that there was bitterness nough to start a feud between the two een the strained relations between Hayood and the Skinner family and its con-men the strained relations between Haywood and the Skinner family and its connections are cited.

The men are said to have made threats igninst each other and the feeling between them was believed to be intense. The prosecution, however, holds that there was no provocation for the shooting, which, it claims, was a deliberate murder. Haywood's attorneys declare his will make a "complete defense."

THE PRISONER.

Haywood is about forty-bne years old, small in stature, weighing probably not over 110 pounds. He has been a close student from his youth, and was known as one of the best office lawyers in the State. Several large estates were in-his charge and he handled considerable amounts of money, his clients having the utmost confidence in him. He belongs to a family that has always been prominent here and has produced many noted men. It is father, Dr. B. Burke Haywood, was once Surgeon-General of the Confederacy.

The defendant's four brothers have been here for some days, one coming from Alabama and one from Haw River, N. C., where he has large cotton-mill interests. They visit him daily in his cell at the county jail.

Mrs. Gertrude Tucker is said to be in a sanitarium in a Northern city in very poor health.

MILLS ARE FLOODED

Serious Damage Done by Continued Rains Near Greensboro.

(Special to The Times Dispatch.)
GREENSBORO, N. C., March 23.—Tho long continued rainy neason is beginning to cause damage in this section from everflows of streams. Deep River is for the first time on a rampage and numerous cotton factories located thereas are beginning to feel the effects. This morning to Columbia factory, at Ramssour, is out of business for the present. Water on the lower floor is up to the top of the looms.

Streams are all full, many overflowing, and if rain continues, which now looks probable, eight or ten other mills on Deep and Haw Rivers will be flooded.

Farmers not only can do no work, but are practically prisoners at home, owing to the impassable roads and flooded streams.

The rain has been incessant all night, and it is expected that the river will go still higher. No damage is yet reported, and if it does not get considerably higher than it is, none is expected. Extensive preparations are being made for the entertainment of the State convention of the Epworth League, which meets in this city on next Thursday. It is expected that a large number of delegates and visitors will attend and the session is expected to be of unusual interesting features have been arranged, and the City Auditor has prepared a book which sots forth the advantages and industries of Danville, which will be given the leaguers as a accuracy of their visit to the city. at $10,000.

Citizens of Greensboro have subscribed $1,000 for the purchase of a lot, and Father Lemmon was so well pleased at this that he did not hesitate to select the $10,000 lot, saying that the difference would be paid by the Sisters of Charliy. An option for the lot was this morning taken, and the papers for the transfer of the property will be completed in a few days. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

GCIDSHORO, N. C., March 23.—The postoffice safe at Mt. Olive was dynamited at 2 o'clock this morning by cracksmen and locted of its contents—two hundred dollars in currency and two hundred dollars in postage stamps. One hundred dollars' worth of the stamps were recovered later to-day at the depot, where it is supposed they were dropped by the locters in making their flight. Entrance to the safe was made by breaking off the knob to the combination, and then filling the vacancy with dynamits. The door was blown from its fastenings and a large hole made through the wall of the adjoining building, so great was the force of the explosion. Thursday two well dressed strangers arrived in Mt. Olive. They told the proprietor of the hole they proposed giving a show. Later they turned salesmen, and sold one merchant a bill of chairs and another a bill of white lend. These individuals were in Mt. Olive last night. This morning they have taken wings. It is thought the cracksmen were the same that roughly got in their work at Ruthertording and Lincolnton. The Mt. Olive safe bore the government stamp, hence is protected by the manufacturers.

storm Saturday evening lightning struck a negro laborer on a log train at the mill of the Weldon Lumber Company and knocked him off. He fell to the ground apparently dead, but soon revived. He had gotten well sgaked by being in the rain and that saved his life.

Jack Battle, colored, janitor of Graco Episcopal Church, was drowned in Roanoke River this morning. The water was out in the low lands and he attempted to go out to an island in a boat, was capsized and drowned.

Rain has been falling here steadily since Saturday, and the Roanoke River is rising rapidly. All indications point to a tremendous freshet. News from the upcountry is that heavy rains have fallen up this river for a considerable distance and a great deal of water is coming down. Already the fine farms below Weldon are flooded and farmers having stock in the river bottoms have been getting it out.

MME. MORELLI THE FEATURE

Charming Leopard Queen Made Her First Appearance at Bostock's.

One of the largest audiences of the season enjoyed the special feature at Bostock's last night.

Mr. Bostock, himself. was on hand, and he was received with great applause when he introduced Mme. Morelli, the beautiful

French queen of leopards.

The features of this wonderful show last night were Mme. Morelli and her leopards; Mme, Blanca, with a group of trained llons, and an innovation in the shape of Professor Brooks, a very clever slight-of-hand performer and prestidigitation.

silght-of-hand performer and prestidigitatour.

Professor Brooks performed a wonderful box trick, in which he achieved the feat of crawling through a very small hole in the box, after being looked inside by a disinterested party, and the box had been covered with a canvas sack and tied with rope. An act similar to the Houdini trick, but more puzzling.

Mme. Blanca, a beautiful Amazon, carried her quintette of llons through a number of tricks, during the action of some of which the audience caught its breath in the fear that the trainer would be torn to pleces by the florce beasts.

They snapped at her and slapped at her, and in one or two instances she had to use her most persuasive methods to make the animals work, and the audience was worked up to the highest pitch of excitement all during the act.

Mmc. Morelli did not entirely escape injury. Just at the close of the act, as she was arranging the animals in a group for a tableau, one of them, as she placed her hand gently on its back, snapped at her and sank its teeth in her fair hand, bringing the blood.

In a moment the big door was opened and all the animals trotted back to their dens. A big bunch of roses was passed up to the charming woman, who bowed most graciously as she withdrew, amid the applause and the music.

Mr. Bostock made a little speech last night, in which he thanked Richmond for the manner in which the people had appreciated his efforts in giving them such a show, and he said that every week during the remainder of his stay here he would introduce some special novelics.
